E. Carroll Joyner Park is the town's newest and largest park located one mile east of Capital Boulevard. The land was a working farm as recently as the 1940s, owned by the Walker family who grew produce to sell to local merchants. The farm was later sold to E. Carroll Joyner, who raised cattle here until the 1990s. The Town of Wake Forest purchased the property in 2003 and now it is one of the community's most treasured resources with sweeping meadows, trails and beautiful settings for public and private events.

Scheduled for several phases of development, Phase I of Joyner Park was completed in late July 2009 and the park was opened to the public in August 2009.
